

Sonam Is Now Officially Mrs. Sonam Kapoor Ahuja

traditional Sikh ceremony at Sonam's aunt's Bandra bungalow.

Sonam wore a fabulous lehenga by Anuradha Vakil festooned with a spectacular choker and a necklace along with matching mathapatti and jhumkis. Anand Ahuja wore a gold sherwani.

Several Bollywood celebrities including Amitabh Bachchan, Aamir Khan, Rani Mukerji, Sonam's colleagues Swara Bhasker and Kareena Kapoor and her best friend Jacqueline attended the ceremony in the morning along with the family members.

Here's what the celebrities tweeted: Priyanka Chopra: Congratulations Sonam Kapoor and Anand Ahuja on your big day! I am so bummed I could not be there for the elegance that was your wedding. I wish you the happiest life always! Much love.

Shah Rukh Khan: I kind of know, how it feels when a piece of your heart gets married. Danced and celebrated love for daughters with my inspiration Anil Kapoor.

Anushka Sharma: Happiness, love and a life time of joy to you both Sonam Kapoor and Anand Ahuja and Welcome to the club! It is such a beautiful journey of life, love and growth.

Shekhar Kapur: So terrific and heart warming to see whole film community gathering together to bless the wedding of one of their own. Speaks so highly of Anil Kapoor's incredible goodwill in the Industry, and how much everyone loves Sonam. All my love and happiness to both of you.

Madhuri Dixit: Bright lights and big city. On our way to Sonam's wedding reception. Congrats to the amazing bride and groom and to a lifetime of happiness together.

Riteish Deshmukh: Congratulations to the newly weds Sonam and Anand - An absolute fairy tale wedding. You guys looked gorgeous. Wishing you all the happiness and love in the world.

Sonam Kapoor is now married to Delhi businessman Anand Ahuja and has officially turned Mrs. Sonam Kapoor Ahuja. Sonam's mother made this announcement in a cute video in which Anand is seen applying sindoor on her forehead and made her wear the mangal- sutra. After the ceremony, Sonam made the announcement on Instagram. The actress, soon to be seen in 'Veere Di Wedding', changed her name from Sonam Kapoor to Sonam Kapoor Ahuja on the photo-sharing site.

Sonam sister Rhea was chief bridesmaid. The marriage was a

I Want To Do Better Globally: Anupam

MUMBAI: Veteran actor Anupam Kher says whenever he takes up an international film or series, he feels a sense of responsibility about representing India. So while he says he focuses on "good work" in India, he wants to do "better" outside.

The actor, 65, on Sunday had tweeted that he was travelling to Belfast, Ireland for the shoot of "Mrs Wilson".

In an accompanying video, he said: "Have reached London and from here I got to Belfast for a series for BBC titled 'Mrs Wilson'. It is a good role. Whenever I work for an international series or movie, then from within I feel I am representing India and I have to give my best.

"I have to do good work in India but outside, I want to do better." Anupam further wrote: "Whenever I am doing an international film or series, in my mind I feel I am officially representing my country and I have to give my best. I get a sense of extra responsibility. Desh ki bhi izzat ka sawaal hota hai (it's a matter of my country's prestige too)! Looking forward to a great experience. 515th project."

The actor, who has earlier featured in a slew of foreign projects, will also be seen in an upcoming series titled "New Amsterdam", a medical drama.

He has been nominated for the Virgin TV British Academy Television Awards in 2018 for his work in the adaptation of Satnam Sanghera's memoir "The Boy with the Topknot", a TV movie.

'Guitar Only' Background Score

MUMBAI: Naseeruddin Shah and Sonali Kulkarni-starrer "Hope Aur Hum" will feature a background score done only on a single instrument.

The Sudip Bandyopadhyay directorial, which has a cast full of theatre actors, has a background score done using only the guitar.

Music director Rupert Fernandes and Bandyopadhyay wanted to try something very different for the film, and so they decided to create the entire background and song score with one instrument. Fernandes said: "When I saw the film, the one feeling that stayed with me was that it had a very personal touch. The story, the performances and direction, cinematography, editing... Everything had a simple yet a very powerful message.

"I had this intuition of interpreting the music - the background score, as well as the songs, only through - the guitar. The tunes made with the guitar are supported by the voices of Shaan, Sonu Nigam and Bhoomi Trivedi.

'Evening Shadows' To Be Closing Film At LGBTQ Festival

MUMBAI: French film "Beats Per Minute" and Indian film "Evening Shadows" will be the opening and closing films respectively at the ninth edition of the Kashish Mumbai International Queer Film Festival.

The festival, the theme for which this year is "Together, With Pride", will be held from May 23-27 at the Liberty Carnival Cinemas and Metro Inox here.

As many as 140 films from 45 countries will be screened at the festival. These will include 33 Indian LGBTQ films.

"The opening and closing films this year reflect the theme of the festival - "Together, With Pride".

While the opening film 'Beats Per Minute' highlights the coming together of individuals to fight a common cause, the AIDS epidemic, the closing film 'Evening Shadows' highlights how it is important for family members to come together to support their children," Sridhar Rangayan, festival director, said.

"Evening Shadows" had its world premiere in February 2018 at the Sydney Mardi Gras Film Festival and has been screened in Bengaluru, Los Angeles, and won the 'Free To Be Me' award at Roze Filmdagen, Amsterdam.

"Evening Shadows' has been selected to screen at six more festivals. But this screening in Mumbai is special for the team, as it is for home audiences. We are looking forward to the Indian LGBTQ community and their families to embrace our film and the message," Rangayan said.
