

'Avengers..' Fastest To Earn $1 B Worldwide

LOS ANGELES: "Avengers: Infinity War" has crossed $1 billion worldwide, setting the record for the fastest film to reach the milestone.

The Disney-Marvel film, which released on April 27, will take in around $122 million this weekend from 4,474 North American locations, which, combined with its international total, will push it past the $1 billion mark, reports variety.com.

"Avengers: Infinity War" is Marvel's sixth film to reach that number, including the second most recent installment in the Marvel Cinematic Universe "Black Panther". "Avengers: Infinity War" brings together 22 superheroes to fight one supervillain Thanos. Anthony and Joe Russo have brought the story alive on the big screen with actors like Robert Downey Jr, Mark Ruffalo, Benedict Cumberbatch and Scarlett Johansson. The film also features Chris Evans, Chris Hemsworth, Chadwick Boseman and Tom Holland.

The superhero tentpole opened to $257.6 million last weekend, attaining the highest-grossing opening weekend of all time. The film got a flying start in India too with a gross collection of Rs 120.9 crore in its opening.

Lively Is Back On Instagram

LOS ANGELES: Blake Lively is back on Instagram after wiping her feed completely and unfollowing everyone on her list including her husband and actor Ryan Reynolds.

The actress shared a new photograph of herself on Friday, added her old photographs and resumed following Reynolds.

"Re-uploading my page and loving this excuse to post this outfit from last month that I forgot to post the next day," she captioned the image. Lively took down all of her Instagram posts on May 1 and unfollowed everyone except 28 women named Emily Nelson as part of the campaign for her movie titled "A Simple Favor".

Gluck To Helm Sequel To Blockbuster 'Peter Rabbit'

LOS ANGELES: Director Will Gluck will be back to helm the sequel of "Peter Rabbit", which is slated to open in 2020.

Sony Pictures has dated "Peter Rabbit 2" for release on February 7, 2020 in the US and March 27, 2020 in the UK. Gluck will be writing the sequel too, reports variety.com.

The film adaptation is based on the classic tale by Beatrix Potter about Peter Rabbit and his family. It narrates the adventures that Peter Rabbit (voiced by James Corden) and his sisters Flopsy, Mopsy and Cotton-Tail (Margot Robbie, Elizabeth Debicki and Daisy Ridley) undergo to reclaim their home. It highlights the tussle between humans and animals.

"Peter Rabbit" has taken in $115 million in the US and is Sony Pictures' biggest ever non-Bond film in the UK, with a $55.7 million total in that market.

"Peter Rabbit" has grossed $325 million worldwide. The film notched first-place finishes in 22 territories internationally, including Australia, Russia, Germany and Spain. It will open in South Korea and Japan in mid-May.

In an interview to IANS earlier in the year Gluck had shared how fun it was to narrate the classic tale. The film, brought to India by Sony Pictures, released in India on April 6.

"It was really fun to write. The fun part was getting the actors to give birth to the characters and kind of pair the characters with their personalities." Asked what his next project would be, the "Friends with Benefits" director had said "no talking animals and no animations". But that seems to have changed looking at the success story of "Peter Rabbit".

Padma In Nude Pizza Shoot

LOS ANGELES: India-born supermodel Padma Lakshmi posed with pizza slices in a bathtub for a naked photo shoot.

The "Top Chef" host posted the series of sultry photographs on Instagram on Friday.

"Cheers to the freakin' weekend #TGIF #tubpizza #mood," Lakshmi, 47, wrote in the caption, crediting her assistant for taking the images.

The mother of one covered her breasts with slices of pepperoni pizza as she munched on another slice while looking at the camera.

While Lakshmi enjoyed the pepperoni pizza, a glass of red wine wasn't too far away from her grasp by the bathtub.

Bruce Willis Will Pack A Punch In 'Cornerman'

CANNES: Actor Bruce Willis is set to play famed boxing trainer Cus D'Amato in the new drama "Cornerman", about discovering boxing legend Mike Tyson.

The cast was announced on Monday just before the kickoff of the 71st Cannes Film Festival, reports variety.com.

The film will be made by "Homeland" actor Rupert Friend, marking his debut in the director's chair.

"Cornerman" is set in the 1980s New York, as it chronicles how D'Amato went from training some of the boxing world's biggest champions to finding a 13-year-old Tyson. That role has not yet been cast. The movie will start shooting in the fall.

"Ultimately, this is a story about a deep love between two ferocious talents, each brave enough to admit their fears to the other, and so spur one another to greatness," Friend said.

"It is a story about fighting for what you believe in, and a film that will make you question what strength really is."

Stallone Working On Fifth 'Rambo'

LOS ANGELES: Sylvester Stallone is working on the fifth installment of "Rambo".

The 71-year-old actor first played the Vietnam veteran in 1982. He is said to be working on a script for the new movie with his "Expendables" collaborator Avi Lerner as a producer.

Lerner's Millennium Films is launching sales on the project in Cannes with a tentative shoot date set for September.

The fifth episode starts when the daughter of one of his friends is kidnapped. Rambo, who is working on a ranch, crosses the US-Mexican border and finds he has to battle one of Mexico's most violent cartels.

Richard Gere Hosts Party To Celebrate Third Marriage

NEW YORK: Hollywood star Richard Gere and his new wife Alejandra Silva threw a wedding party with family and close friends on May 5 to celebrate their marriage. He reportedly welcomed several Tibetan monks to the celebration.

The intimate gathering was held at Gere's estate here, reports people.com.

Richard is a Buddhist, and is considered one of Dalai Lama's most high-profile followers. Silva also converted to the religion after hitting it off with the "Pretty Woman" star.

Actress Sandra Santiago was also in attendance for the celebrations and praised the bride in a sweet Instagram post.

A source had earlier told people.com that Gere and Silva tied the knot "weeks and weeks ago" in a civil ceremony.

Richard, 68, and publicist-activist Silva, 35, first started dating in 2014. Spanish magazine HOLA! had first reported the news of their marriage.

This is Gere's third marriage. He first tied the knot with supermodel Cindy Crawford, who he was married to from 1991 to 1995. The actor later welcomed his only son, 17-year-old Homer, with his second wife, Carey Lowell.

Lowell and Gere married in 2002. Their divorce that was finalized in 2016 after separating in 2013. For Silva, this marks her second marriage after welcoming 5-year-old son Albert in 2012 with then-husband Govind Friedland, a mining executive, as per HOLA!, reports people.com.
